

BACK TO BASICS

Each year the Brazilian photographer Mona Kuhn leaves her busy LA life to live in a remote cottage on the outskirts of Bordeaux. She invites friends and family to pose nude for her against a red patterned drape, with nothing but an old battered chair to hide behind. "It is a rather classic approach to the portrait, which I feel is in sympathy with the plainness and simplicity of the place," she says. Bordeaux Series is at Flowers Gallery, London W1, October 5 to 29. Visit: www.flowersgalleries.com Photographs by Mona Kuhn

Words by Emma Broomfield

For an extended selection of Spectrum images, visit www.thesundaytimes.co.uk/spectrum